

The best thing any politician has ever done for me is to get the telemarketers off my telephone. Now I understand that you want to put them back on again. If you do, I will have my phone removed and use a cell phone, with no phone number listing. I was getting an average of 8 calls a day and always at the most inconvenient times.

It is so nice and quiet now, I will never put up with it again.

I did not vote for Mike Pence because he used my phone to play a tape telling what was wrong with his opponent. It lost him my vote. He won without it, but another time they might not. I never bought anything from a telemarketer, so I do not understand why they kept calling me. Please do not override Indian's law regarding telemarkets. It is working-except for politicians and policemen!!!
